

Clinical Training Manager

Rebotics Technology is a young and fast growing orthotic spinal/neuro distributor for the Rewalk, Keeogo, Myomo, Exoskeletal orthosis and the Exopulse Mollii suit. We also have other relevant products available within the company's range and other products that will be developed and added to the company portfolio in time.

An amazing opportunity has arisen for an Orthotist that wants to develop themselves into the new world of Orthotic Development and into a managerial role.

The Clinical Training Manager applicants will need to be HCPC registered and preferably members of BAPO and will also help to run CPD training courses.

Under the role of Clinical Training Manager, you will have total responsibility to help support and train rehab units, spinal units etc., and will also be working closely with individuals, case managers and solicitors within the UK. A company vehicle will be provided, and full training will also be provided on the above products.

This role is more of a home-based position with travel within the UK required.

If you feel this role is for you and you would like to discuss this amazing opportunity further, then please contact Richard Holland-Oakes on either 07595-040826 or via email at richard@rebotics.co.uk
